AGRICULTURE

Garvin County lies in south central Oklahoma and is comprised of 533,120 acres of land, with 468,880 acres being fertile agricultural land. The county is 42 miles wide and 24 miles long. It is also very important to all the legal descriptions in the State of Oklahoma. When the state was originally surveyed, it had to start at the center of state, at the point where Indian Meridian and the Base Line met, and these lines intersect in southern Garvin County. It also is an extremely diversified agricultural area with a gross value of production of approximately $152 million. More than $42 million comes from crop production and $105 million from livestock production.

Garvin County ranks number one in south central Oklahoma in wheat production with 32,000 acres. The county also ranks at the top with its corn crop (3,300 acres) and soybeans (8,500 acres).

Alfalfa and other hay crops rank third in the state with 85,000 acres harvested. Garvin County is known for the great quality alfalfa hay raised in the fertile Washita River bottom that extends for over 65 miles in the county. Much of this hay is exported to other states, particularly Texas. This large quantity of quality alfalfa has also been important to the dairy production in Oklahoma and Texas.

Cattle production also ranks in the top ten in the state with 75,000 head of cattle and calves and at the top with beef cows that number 400,000. Rounding out the livestock numbers are 700 head of milk cows, 1,500 sheep, 2,000 head of goats and 250 head of buffalo.
